What I want to share with you today is how we've used satellite data to find an ancient Egyptian city, called Itjtawy, missing for thousands of years. Itjtawy was ancient Egypt's capital for over four hundred years, at a period of time called the Middle Kingdom, about four thousand years ago. The site is located in the Faiyum of Egypt, and the site is really important, because in the Middle Kingdom there was this great renaissance for ancient Egyptian art, architecture and religion. Egyptologists have always known the site of Itjtawy was located somewhere near the pyramids of the two kings who built it, indicated within red circles here, but somewhere within this flood plain. This area is huge - it's four miles by three miles in size. The Nile used to flow right next to the city of Itjtawy. And as it shifted and changed and moved over time to the east, it covered over the city.

So we collaborated with Egyptian scientists to do coring work, which you see here. When I say coring, it's like ice coring, but instead of layers of climate change, you're looking for layers of human occupation. And, five meters down, underneath a thick layer of mud. We found a dense layer of pottery. What this shows is that at this possible location of Itjtawy, five meters down, we have a layer of occupation for several hundred years, dating to the Middle Kingdom, dating to the exact period of time we think Itjtawy is. We also found work stone — carnelian, quartz and agate that shows that there was a jeweler's workshop here. These might not look like much, but when you think about the most common stones used in jewelry from the Middle Kingdom, these are the stones that were used.

23. (Taken from TEDTALKS. SARAH PARCAK «Archaeology from space»)

- A) She found the layer of human occupation.
- B) She found the layer of climate change.
- C) They found the butcher shop.
- D) They found the bones of early people.

24. What is «Itjtawy» is?

- A) tribe B) city
- C) river D) castle

25. What didn't the archeologist find?

- A) quartz B) agate
- C) the skeletons D) mud

26. What does the author do?

- A) unemployed
- B) historian
- C) teacher
- D) archeologist

Read and answer the following four questions (27-30) about the text.

One time illustrator, Winslow Homer painted in a careful, clear, accurately detailed, and convincing manner Homer worked on “Breezing Up” at intervals over a period of three years. It was the result of intense study, and it grew out of two earlier studies of the scene, a watercolour and small oil painting.

Sun-bronzed boys in their weather beaten clothes were a common sight in New England in Homer's time, as were fishermen like the one in the red jacket, shown crouching as he holds the mainsheet in the rising wind, the boys have positioned themselves to counter balance the tilt of the boat as it speeds along in a choppy sea. The lad stretched full length by mast seems oblivious to the spray of the bow waves; the boy beside him, silhouetted against the sky, holds onto the coaming. The light that highlights the figures of the sailors also illuminates the scales of the fish in the bottom of the boat. The picture gives us a sense of the pleasure and independence of sailing.

- C) abstract D) amusing

29. The boys in the painting have assumed their positions to ...

- A) hold onto the fishing nets
- B) enjoy the spray of the waves
